

Macmillan professionals commitment

This is an overview of what Macmillan can do for the professionals we work with and what the organisation asks of them.

Macmillan's commitment	Macmillan Professionals' commitment
Opportunities: We select a broad choice of opportunities to make sure that professionals continue to develop, both personally and in their careers.	Contribution: Professionals make the most of relevant opportunities to contribute and get involved in Macmillan's work.
Resources: We provide professionals with high quality and appropriate resources.	Representation: Professionals are the face of Macmillan and make practical and responsible use of Macmillan's services and resources, promoting Macmillan as much as possible to the benefit of people affected by cancer.
Support: We are sensitive to professionals' needs and proactively and responsively offer diverse kinds of support when required.	Excellence and reputation: Professionals commit to continually developing themselves and their service in order to consistently provide patients with an experience of the highest possible quality.
Governance: We work closely with professionals and their employers to ensure targets are reached and all requirements are understood and achievable.	Responsibility: Professionals are open to communication with Macmillan representatives and are prepared to participate in agreed Macmillan requirements, such as annual reports.
Partnership with Employer: We value partnerships and work closely with employers to share expertise and skills, especially with regards to cancer services provision.	Leadership: Professionals set high standards in the field of cancer support. By embracing innovation and influencing for the improvement of care, they work with us for the benefit of people affected by cancer.