Longest Day Golf Challenge

Have you got the stamina of Tiger Woods? If you think you do, pick up your clubs, take a swing and help make a difference to the lives of people affected by cancer

Up for it? Get Involved

Macmillan Cancer Support are asking all golfers to prove they have got Tiger Woods' stamina by playing four rounds in one day as part of the Longest Day Challenge 2011 and it couldn't be easier to get involved.

Simply organise a team of three or four players and then choose when you want to play. But unless you want to use luminous balls, we recommend some time between May and August when days are longest.

Once you've signed up, we'll send out your event guidelines, a poster, scorecard, sponsorship forms, everything you will need to make your challenge one to remember.

Change Lives

Last year's event was a huge success with over 300 teams swinging into action and raising over £340,000 in sponsorship for cancer victims right across the UK. This year's event aims to emulate last year's and by challenging yourself for one day, you and your team will go a long way in ensuring the vital, life-changing work done by Macmillan Cancer Support will continue to help the thousands who are living with cancer.

Register now

Visit macmillan.org.uk/golf or call 020 7840 4615 now and register for the Longest Day Golf Challenge 2011. Remember, however much you raise, one result is guaranteed; your efforts will help provide the much-needed medical, emotional and financial support that is vital to cancer victims and can mean the difference between a good or bad day.
