Beth yw canser?

Mae canser yn cychwyn mewn celloedd yn ein corff. Celloedd yw'r blociau adeiladu bychain sy'n ffurio'r organau a meinwe yn y corff. Mae celloedd yn cael negeseuon gan y corff sy'n dweud wrthynt pa bryd i dyfu, a pha bryd i rannu i wneud celloedd newydd. Dyna sut mae ein cyrff yn tyfu ac yn gwella. Gall y celloedd hyn fynd yn hen, eu difrodi neu nad oes eu hangen mwyach. Pan fydd hyn yn digwydd, mae'r gell yn cael neges gan y corff i stopio gweithio a marw.

Weithiau gall y negeseuon hyn fynd o chwith, a daw'r gell yn annormal. Gall y gell annormal barhau i rannu gan wneud mwy a mwy o geloedd annormal. Gallant ffurio lwm a elwir yn diwmor.

Celloedd normal

Celloedd sy'n ffurio tiwmor

Nid yw pob tiwmor yn ganser. Gall lwm nad yw'n ganser (tiwmor anfalaen) dyfu, ond ni all ledaenu i unrhyw ran arall o'r corff. Mae ond yn achosi problemau fel arfer os yw'n tyfu ac yn pwysu ar organau cyfagos.

Gall lwm sy'n ganser (tiwmor malaen) dyfu i mewn i feinwe cyfagos.

Weithiau mae celloedd canser yn torri'n rhydd o'r canser cyntaf ac yn teithio trwy'r gwaed neu system lymffatig i rannau eraill o'r corff. Gelwir celloedd canser sy'n lledaenu a datblygu i diwmor rhywle arall yn y corff yn ganser eilaidd neu fetastasis.

Mae rhai mathau o ganser yn dechrau o geloedd gwaed. Gall celloedd annormal gronni yn y gwaed, ac weithiau ym mîr yr esgyrn. Mîr yr esgyrn yw lle mae celloedd gwaed yn cael eu gwneud. Weithiau gelwir y mathau hyn o ganser yn ganserau gwaed.

What is cancer?

Cancer starts in the cells in our body. Cells are tiny building blocks that make up the body's organs and tissues. Cells receive signals from the body, telling them when to grow and when to divide to make new cells. This is how our bodies grow and heal. These cells can become old, damaged or no longer needed. When this happens, the cell gets a signal from the body to stop working and die.

Sometimes these signals can go wrong, and the cell becomes abnormal. The abnormal cell may keep dividing to make more and more abnormal cells. These can form a lump, called a tumour.

Normal cells

Cells forming a tumour

Not all tumours are cancer. A tumour that is not cancer (a benign tumour) may grow, but it cannot spread to anywhere else in the body. It usually only causes problems if it grows and presses on nearby organs.

A tumour that is cancer (a malignant tumour) can grow into nearby tissue.

Cancer cells sometimes break away from the first cancer and travel through the blood or lymphatic system to other parts of the body. Cancer cells that spread and develop into a tumour somewhere else in the body are called a secondary cancer or a metastasis.

Some types of cancer start from blood cells. Abnormal cells can build up in the blood, and sometimes the bone marrow. The bone marrow is where blood cells are made. These types of cancer are sometimes called blood cancers.

What happens after diagnosis?

Your healthcare team should talk to you about your treatment options and about any support you need. They will tell you what your treatment will involve and when it can start. You may need to have some more tests or scans to find out more about the cancer.

If you are LGBTQ+

The information on this page is written for everyone affected by cancer. If you are LGBTQ+, you may have additional questions.

Sometimes it can help you feel better supported if your healthcare team know your sexual orientation or gender. And it may help your healthcare team give the right information and support to you and the people closest to you.

If you are trans (transgender) or non-binary, talking to a health professional about your body may be difficult. Sometimes, tests or treatment may involve parts of the body you find upsetting to talk about. You may also have questions if you take hormones or have had gender-affirming surgeries.

Try to take someone you trust to your appointments. They can listen and help you cope with what is happening.

Health and social care professionals you might meet

When you have cancer, you may meet lots of different health and social care professionals.

Your main contact

You should have a main contact person in your healthcare team. They may be called a key worker or link worker. You will be given their name and contact details. If you have questions or need advice, they can help.

In your local area

There are professionals who can help look after you while you are at home. They will be in contact with your hospital team. They include:

- GP – Your GP looks after your health while you are at home. They can help you manage symptoms and side effects and arrange for you to see specialists if needed. They can arrange services to help you at home and talk to you about any treatment decisions you need to make.
- Community and district nurses – These nurses can visit you at home and give care and support to you and anyone looking after you. Your GP can contact them for you.
- Practice nurse – Some GP practices have nurses who work alongside the GP. A practice nurse can help explain things to you and might do things like take blood tests or put dressings on wounds.

Hospital team (MDT)

At hospital, a multidisciplinary team (MDT) will manage your treatment and care. This is a group of health and social care professionals. The group might include some or all of these people:

- Surgeon – a doctor who does operations.
- Oncologist – a doctor who treats cancer.
- Haematologist – a doctor who treats blood problems.
- Radiologist – a doctor who is trained to look at x-rays and scans.
- Clinical nurse specialist (CNS) – a nurse who gives information and support during treatment.
- Palliative care doctor – a doctor who helps with symptom control.

There may be other people in the MDT depending on the type of cancer you have.

Social services and voluntary organisations

If you need help at home, for example with washing, dressing, cleaning or shopping, speak to your GP or main contact. They may refer you to a social worker. A social worker can help with practical and financial problems. There may also be other organisations in your area that could help.

How treatment is planned

Your healthcare team, who are experts in your type of cancer, will plan your treatment. They will think about:

- the type of cancer
- the size of the cancer and whether it has spread
- your general health
- national treatment guidelines
- your preferences and what is important to you.

Doctors need your permission (consent) before you have any treatment.

Make sure you understand the treatment options. Your doctor or nurse should answer any questions you have about the treatment. Cancer treatment can be complicated so you may need to ask questions more than once. It might help to take a relative or friend to appointments with you. They can help you remember what was said. It might also help to make a list of questions that you want to ask and take it to your appointment. You can write down the answers so you remember them.

Making decisions about treatment

There might be more than one possible treatment. Your doctor may offer you a choice. They will give you all the information you need to make your decision. Before you decide what is right for you, it is important to understand:

- what each treatment involves
- the possible side effects
- the benefits and disadvantages of each treatment.

Your healthcare team will give you time to choose. They can also help you with the decision.

The main cancer treatments

The aim of treatment is to cure the cancer, or control it and relieve its symptoms.

The type of treatment you have will depend on the cancer and your situation. You may have more than one treatment. Cancer treatments can include:

- surgery – the cancer is removed in an operation
- radiotherapy – high-energy x-rays are used to destroy cancer cells
- chemotherapy – drugs are used to destroy cancer cells
- hormonal therapies – these drugs change the activity of hormones in your body, which can slow down or stop the cancer from growing.
- targeted therapies – these drugs interfere with the way cancer cells grow.

Clinical trials

Clinical trials are medical research studies involving people.. They test new treatments to see if they are more effective than current treatments. A trial might involve testing a new drug or testing a new way of giving treatment.

If there are any trials that you can take part in, your doctor will talk to you about them. You can choose not to take part in a trial.

Side effects

Cancer treatments can cause side effects. These can often be reduced and managed. Your healthcare team will give you advice. Most side effects gradually go away after treatment finishes.

Talking to your healthcare team

Having cancer can be a worrying and confusing time. Talking to your healthcare team can help. Many people feel better and more in control when they know what is happening to them and why.

People often feel that hospital staff are too busy to answer their questions. But it is important for you to understand what is happening and how the cancer and its treatment might affect you. The staff are there to help you. They should make time for your questions. If you do not understand or speak English well, the hospital can arrange an interpreter for you.

You might find some questions difficult to ask, especially if they are about personal issues. But your healthcare team are there to help and they are used to answering these questions.

It is important that you understand what you are told. If you do not understand, ask the doctor or nurse to explain again.

Questions to ask your healthcare team

Here are some questions you may want to ask your healthcare team. They may not all be relevant for you.

- What does my diagnosis mean?
- How advanced is the cancer?
- What will my treatment involve?
- What are the benefits, risks and side effects of each treatment?
- How will the treatment affect my daily life?
- How effective will treatment be?
- Who can I talk to about how I am feeling?
- Who can I speak to if I think of questions later?
- I have religious or spiritual wishes – will these be met?

Coping with cancer

Your emotions

It is common to have many different emotions when you are told you have cancer. You may feel shocked, scared, worried, angry or depressed. There is no right or wrong way to feel. Talking about how you feel can often help.

Where to get support:

- Macmillan – See the How Macmillan can help you section below for all the ways we can help.
- Counsellors – A counsellor can help you talk about and find ways to deal with your feelings in a place where you feel safe. Ask your cancer doctor or GP if you would like counselling.

Complementary therapies

These are other therapies that may help you feel better, such as meditation or relaxation. These therapies do not treat cancer. You should always tell your cancer doctor about any other therapies you want to use.

Religion and spirituality

After a cancer diagnosis, some people become more aware of religious beliefs or spiritual feelings. People with a strong religious faith often find this very helpful. Other people may question their faith.

Some people find comfort in prayer or meditation. Many people find it helpful knowing that other people are praying for them.

You can talk to a chaplain, minister, priest, rabbi or other religious leader even if you are not sure about what you believe. Spiritual and religious leaders are used to helping, and you may find peace of mind.

Support for family, friends and carers

People close to you may also need information or support. Our cancer support specialists are here to help everyone affected by cancer, including your relatives and friends. They can call us on 0808 808 00 00.

A carer is someone who gives unpaid support to a relative or friend with cancer who could not manage without this help. They might help with personal care, give emotional support or help with housework. If someone is helping to look after you, it is important they get support too. There is lots of help available for them. They should talk to your doctor or nurse about this or call Macmillan on 0808 808 00 00.

Getting the right care and support for you

If you have cancer and do not speak English, you may be worried that this will affect your cancer treatment and care. But your healthcare team should offer you care, support and information that meets your needs.

We know that sometimes people may face extra challenges in getting the right support. For example, if you work or have a family it can be hard to find time to go to hospital appointments. You might also have worries about money and transport costs. All of this can be stressful and hard to cope with.

But help is available. Our free support line 0808 808 00 00 can offer advice, in your language, about your situation. You can speak to nurses, financial guides, welfare rights advisers and work support advisers.

We also offer Macmillan Grants to people with cancer. These are one-off payments that can be used for things like hospital parking, travel costs, childcare or heating bills.
