WORK SUPPORT ROUTE GUIDE
ENGLAND

A resource for health professionals to guide people living with cancer who are in employment or on long-term sick leave, self-employed or out of work and want to discuss work options.
HOW TO USE THIS TOOL

This tool has been developed for health professionals, to help you have conversations about work with people living with cancer.

Talking about employment and benefits with your patients is important for their health and wellbeing. But we understand that work might not be your field of expertise.

We have created a series of questions to help you to give your patient the right support and information, whether they are in employment, out of work, or self-employed.

Start by asking your patient ‘Which of these best describes your current employment status?’ The answer your patient gives will lead you to one of 3 sections opposite.

Once you’re on the relevant page, follow the flow to guide your patient.

At the end, you can give them a copy of ‘Useful contact details’ for that section to take away with them.
In employment or on long-term sick leave

Work is good for health and well-being. This section will help you to support your patient to stay in work, or return to work after their cancer treatment.

Print out a copy of ‘In employment or on long-term sick leave’ and go through the questions with your patient. The answers your patient gives will lead you to the next question.

Follow the flow. Your patient will be signposted to the right information according to how they answer each question.

At the end, you can give a copy of ‘Useful contact details’ to your patient.
1. In employment or on long-term sick leave

Change career
If you want to change your job you can talk to the careers advice service at National Careers Service. They can offer you practical help with updating your CV, interview tips and where to find work.

Retirement
Early retirement may be an option for someone who is on an occupational pension scheme. You can also speak to an independent financial adviser.

---

Do you want to return to, or stay in your current job?

- No
- Yes

Are you aware of your legal rights at work following your diagnosis?

- No
- Yes

Have you spoken to your employer about staying in work during treatment or returning to work?

- No
- Yes

Have you and your employer agreed a return to work plan?

- No
- Yes

Do you know where to find further information and advice?

- No

---

Are you aware of your legal rights at work following your diagnosis?

- No
- Yes

---

Have you spoken to your employer about staying in work during treatment or returning to work?

- No
- Yes

---

Have you and your employer agreed a return to work plan?

- No
- Yes

---

Do you know where to find further information and advice?

- No

---

Don’t forget to give your patient a copy of the useful contact sheet.

Once you’re back at work, you might still have bad days. Don’t face them alone. The Macmillan team is with you every step of the way. For information, help, or if you just want a chat, call the Macmillan Support Line on 0808 808 00 00. Monday to Friday, 9am–8pm. Or visit macmillan.org.uk
1. In employment or on long-term sick leave – Useful contact details England

Careers advice
National Careers Service can help you make an action plan with achievable targets to support you back to work. They have tools and resources you need to support your next career step.

Contact them on 0800 100 900, or go to nationalcareersservice.direct.gov.uk

Retirement
Find out more about early retirement, and what it means to you financially, by visiting moneyadviceservice.org.uk

Work advice
Access to work can help you if your health affects the way you do your job. They can give you and your employer advice and support with extra costs which may arise because of your needs, such as equipment you need at work or help with paying for travel costs.

Go to direct.gov.uk/accesstowork
direct.gov.uk/employment

You can find your Disability Employment Advisor (DEA) at your local Job Centre Plus. You can search for a job centre nearest to you at jobseekers.direct.gov.uk

Macmillan
macmillan.org.uk

For free Macmillan booklets on work and cancer, go to be.macmillan.org.uk.
Out of work

If your patient is out of work and needs support to go back to work, this route guide aims to support this decision.

Print out a copy of ‘Out of work’ and go through the questions with your patient. The answers your patient gives will lead you to the next question.

Follow the flow. Your patient will be signposted to the right information according to how they answer each question.

At the end, you can give a copy of ‘Useful contact details’ to your patient.
2. Out of work

Are you ready to start looking for work?

Yes

Are you worried about going back to work?

Yes

Would you like to know more about financial support and benefits that you may be entitled to?

Yes

No

Same career
It might have been a while since you filled out an application form, or had an interview, and you might not know where to start. Your local Jobcentre Plus is there to guide you through the process. Once you’ve registered with them, you will be introduced to a personal adviser, who will support you to find a job. If you are entitled to claim Jobseeker’s Allowance, your adviser can also help you fill out the forms.

You might also want to register with a few recruitment agencies. There are plenty on the high street, or you can find some of the bigger ones online.

Change career
If you want to change your career, talk to the careers advice service at the National Careers Service. They can offer you practical help with updating your CV, interview tips and where to find work.

Have you considered volunteering? For more information go to useful contacts in this section.

Are you ready to start looking for work?

No

When you’ve had a cancer diagnosis, it can take a long time to feel like yourself again. You might still feel physically unwell. Or perhaps you feel fine, but lack the confidence to return to work.

Talk to a healthcare professional or an adviser at your local Macmillan cancer information centre. They can suggest ways to improve your confidence, such as counselling or a self-management programme.

The Equality Act 2010 covers all aspects of employment including the recruitment process, the terms, conditions and benefits of employment. It also covers unfair treatment compared to other workers. You can read the Work and cancer booklet to get more information about this.

Your local Jobcentre Plus can put together a programme to help you gradually come off benefits and get back to work. You may be entitled to certain credits or benefits once you start work. These include Job Grants, tax credits and help with interview expenses.

You can also talk through it with one of Macmillan’s benefits advisers, either face-to-face, online or over the phone.

Don’t forget to give your patient a copy of the useful contact sheet.

Once you’re back at work, you might still have bad days. Don’t face them alone. The Macmillan team is with you every step of the way. For information, help, or if you just want a chat, call the Macmillan Support Line on 0808 808 00 00. Monday to Friday, 9am–8pm. Or visit macmillan.org.uk
Careers advice
National Careers Service can help you make an action plan with achievable targets to support you back to work. They have tools and resources you need to support your next career step.

Contact them on 0800 100 900, or go to nationalcareersservice.direct.gov.uk

Volunteering
Find a role that’s right for you go to voluntaryworker.co.uk

Work advice
Access to work can help you if your health affects the way you do your job. They can give you and your employer advice and support with extra costs which may arise because of your needs, such as equipment you need at work or help with paying for travel costs.

Go to direct.gov.uk/accesstowork
direct.gov.uk/employment

You can find your Disability Employment Advisor (DEA) at your local Job Centre Plus. You can search for a job centre nearest to you at jobseekers.direct.gov.uk

Financial support and benefits
Go to direct.gov.uk/moneytaxandbenefits

Money advice service provide unbiased money advice to help people make informed choices such as mortgage payments, loans, insurance or debt management moneyadviseservice.org.uk

Money advice service provide unbiased money advice to help people make informed choices such as mortgage payments, loans, insurance or debt management moneyadviseservice.org.uk

Money advice service provide unbiased money advice to help people make informed choices such as mortgage payments, loans, insurance or debt management moneyadviseservice.org.uk

Macmillan
Macmillan Support Line. Call 0808 808 00 00 Monday to Friday, 9am–8pm. Our information and support centres are located all across the country. To find a centre near you, go to macmillan.org.uk/howwecanhelp

Speak to a Macmillan benefits adviser on 0808 808 00 00. If you’d prefer to speak to someone in person, find your nearest Macmillan benefits adviser at macmillan.org.uk/benefitsadvisers

Or find us online at macmillan.org.uk/financialissues. You might also want to look through our Benefits made clear guide at macmillan.org.uk/benefitsmadeclear

For free Macmillan booklets on work and cancer, go to be.macmillan.org.uk.
There is a great sense of achievement and satisfaction being self-employed. Your patient maybe concerned that having cancer could lead to starting over again or closing down the business. This route guide can help to discuss options to stay self employed or think about other options.

Print out a copy of ‘Self-employed’ and go through the questions with your patient. The answers your patient gives will lead you to the next question.

Follow the flow. Your patient will be signposted to the right information according to how they answer each question.

At the end, you can give a copy of ‘Useful contact details’ to your patient.
3. Self-employed

If you are returning to work, you might have to build up your business again. This can put pressure on you at a time when you may still be feeling unwell. Cancer self-management programmes or rehabilitation services, such as physiotherapy or occupational therapy, may help you to cope.

Macmillan’s booklet Self-employment and cancer has lots of advice about managing your workload, and your finances. You can order it from be.macmillan, or call the Macmillan Support Line.

Would you like advice on changing your career, volunteering, or early retirement?

Yes

Change career
If you want to change your career, talk to the careers advice service at National Careers Service. They can offer you practical help with updating your CV, interview tips and where to find work.

Volunteering
Volunteering offers a chance to learn new skills, get active or gain experience to add to your CV. For more information contact Voluntary worker.

No

Would you like to know more about financial support and benefits that you may be entitled to?

Yes

Get in touch with Macmillan’s benefits advisers, either face-to-face, or over the phone, or find them online. You might also want to look through their interactive guide called Benefits Made Clear.

If cancer affects the way you do your job, you could get advice and support through a government scheme called Access to Work. You can apply for Access to Work funding if you are self-employed, or you can have a chat with the Disability Employment Adviser (DEA) at your local Jobcentre Plus. Another useful website is Businesslink, where you can find professional and financial help. For information on mortgage payments, loans and insurance take a look at our useful contacts list at the end of this section. If you have a personal insurance policy, you should also contact your insurers. You may be able to make a claim to support yourself while you get back to work.

No

Would you like advice on changing your career, volunteering, or early retirement?

Yes

Retirement
Find out more about early retirement, and what it means to you financially, by visiting the Money Advice Service. You can also speak to an independent financial adviser.

No

Once you’re back at work, you might still have bad days. Don’t face them alone. The Macmillan team is with you every step of the way. For information, help, or if you just want a chat, call the Macmillan Support Line on 0808 808 00 00. Monday to Friday, 9am–8pm. Or visit macmillan.org.uk

Don’t forget to give your patient a copy of the useful contact sheet.
3. Self-employed – Useful contact details England

Careers advice
National Careers Service can help you make an action plan with achievable targets to support you back to work. They have tools and resources you need to support your next career step.

Contact them on 0800 100 900, or go to nationalcareersservice.direct.gov.uk

Volunteering
Find a role that’s right for you go to voluntaryworker.co.uk

Work advice
Access to work can help you if your health affects the way you do your job. They can give you and your employer advice and support with extra costs which may arise because of your needs, such as equipment you need at work or help with paying for travel costs.

Go to direct.gov.uk/accesstowork
direct.gov.uk/employment

You can find your Disability Employment Advisor (DEA) at your local Job Centre Plus. You can search for a job centre nearest to you at jobseekers.direct.gov.uk

Financial support and benefits
Go to direct.gov.uk/moneytaxandbenefits

Money advice service provide unbiased money advice to help people make informed choices such as mortgage payments, loans, insurance or debt management moneyadviseservice.org.uk

Businesslink provide professional and financial advice go to businesslink.gov.uk

Macmillan
Macmillan Support Line.
Call 0808 808 00 00
Monday to Friday, 9am–8pm.
Our information and support centres are located all across the country.
To find a centre near you, go to macmillan.org.uk/howwecanhelp

Speak to a Macmillan benefits adviser on 0808 808 00 00. If you’d prefer to speak to someone in person, find your nearest Macmillan benefits adviser at macmillan.org.uk/benefitsadvisers

Or find us online at macmillan.org.uk/financialissues. You might also want to look through our Benefits made clear guide at macmillan.org.uk/benefitsmadeclear

For free Macmillan booklets on work and cancer, go to be.macmillan.org.uk.

We have a booklet called Self-employed and cancer which you may find useful.