

Preferred Priorities for Care

This form is for people living in England and Wales only. We suggest you read it alongside our booklet, Your life and your choices: plan ahead.

Name

Address

Postcode

Telephone

What is this document for?

The Preferred Priorities for Care (also known as PPC) can help you prepare for the future. It gives you an opportunity to think about, talk about and write down your preferences and priorities for care at the end of your life. You don't need to do this unless you want to.

The PPC can help you and your carers (your family, friends and professionals) to understand what is important to you when planning your care. If a time comes when, for whatever reason, you're unable to make a decision for yourself, anyone who has to make decisions about your care on your behalf will have to take into account anything you have written in your PPC.

Sometimes people wish to refuse specific medical treatments in advance. The PPC is not meant to be used for such legally-binding refusals. If you decide that you want to refuse any medical treatments, it would be advisable to discuss this with your doctors.

Remember that your views may change over time. You can change what you have written whenever you wish to, and it's a good idea to review your PPC regularly to make sure that it still reflects what you want.

Should I talk to other people about my PPC?

You may find it helpful to talk about your future care with your family and friends, although sometimes this can be difficult because it might be emotional or people might not agree. It can also be useful to talk about any particular needs your family or friends may have if they are going to be involved in caring for you. Your professional carers (such as your doctor, nurse or social worker) can help and support you and your family with this.

When you have completed your PPC, you're encouraged to keep it with you and share it with anyone involved in your care. Unless people know what is important to you, they won't be able to take your wishes into account.

Will my preferences and priorities be met?

What you have written in your PPC will always be taken into account when planning your care. However, sometimes things can change unexpectedly (like carers becoming over-tired or ill), or resources may not be available to meet a particular need.

What should I include in my PPC?

You should include anything that is important to you or that you're worried about. It's a good idea to think about your beliefs and values, what you would and would not like, and where you would like to be cared for at the end of your life.

People who should be asked about your care if you're unable to make a decision for yourself

You may have formally appointed somebody to make decisions on your behalf, using a Lasting Power of Attorney, in case you ever become unable to make a decision for yourself. If you have registered a Lasting Power of Attorney please provide their contact details below.

Name	Relationship to you
Address	Telephone number

Even if you haven't registered a Lasting Power of Attorney, is there anybody you would like to be consulted about your care in the event that you're unable to make decisions for yourself? If so, please provide their contact details below.

Name	Relationship to you
Address	Telephone number

Your preferences and priorities

In relation to your health, what has been happening to you?

What are your preferences and priorities for your future care?

Where would you like to be cared for in the future?

Signed

Date

Please record any changes to your preferences and priorities here.
(Please sign and date any changes)

Further information

You can use this page to make a note of any further information you need or questions you might want to ask your professional carers (like your doctor, nurse or social worker).

Contact details

You can use the space below to record contact details of anyone who is involved in your care.

Name	Relationship to you	Contact details

This document was given to me by

Name	Organisation
Telephone number	Email address

© National End of Life Care Programme
Preferred Priorities for Care was developed in 2004 by the Lancashire & South Cumbria Cancer Network and revised in 2007 by the National End of Life Care Programme. Permission has been granted for Macmillan Cancer Support to reproduce and distribute the document on a not-for-profit basis. For more information visit endoflifecareforadults.nhs.uk

Printed using sustainable material. Please recycle.
Macmillan Cancer Support, registered charity in England and Wales (261017),
Scotland (SC039907) and the Isle of Man (604). MAC13616_PPC